

England trip 2025 - Day 14 - May 25th From Royal Rooms to Wembley Views

Our first day in London was packed with fun, but first we had to say goodbye to our hostparents after two weeks. We had just got used to everything, but we were also excited for our next destination.

Our first stop was Windsor with its famous castle – it looked like it was taken straight out of Harry Potter. Even though you could only walk through some of the rooms, you could feel the “royal vibe”. We even got to see the Royal Guard. Fun fact: It’s actually true that if they laugh while on duty, they can get fired!

Windsor itself was fun too. We went shopping, but everything there is super expensive. Still, it’s such a cute town and we took loads of photos in the streets and around the castle. Sadly, you’re not allowed to take any pictures inside the castle – which was a bit disappointing because it looked amazing. But the rooms and decorations will definitely stay in our memories.

Later, we drove towards London and finally arrived at our hotel, which is very cool, comfortable and really nice. We were all happy with the rooms and we also went to Wembley Stadium, which is no more than five minutes from where we’re staying. On the way, we saw lots of supporters who had visited the match that had just ended. Sadly, we couldn’t go inside, but it was impressive from the outside, too.

Because we still had some time on our hands, some of us went to a nearby park and played volleyball. It was the perfect way to end the day – everyone was laughing, having fun, and just enjoying the moment. (Jan and Otto)
